Get a life... at UB

Orientation Issue

by Sharon Loh

So, today is the 29th of August, 1996—the first day of college life. Today is the first day you will be nine months away from home. Today is the first day of the next four years of your life. And of all places, you are at the University of Bridgeport. You may just be 15 minutes or thousands of miles away from home. But the thing is, you are away from home. Overwhelming isn't it?

Well, just see it this way: Today is the first day of the rest of your life and you will have to make something out of the next four years (two years for some of you). We are more than pleased to welcome you to the University, and in this issue we hope to take you through a whirlwind tour of how our campus life can get.

Well, things to do on campus... we have a campus? Kidding. Actually if most UB students would open their eyes, they would see tons of things to be done. For instance, if you are a "party person," there are parties which are organized by the Student Center Board of Directors (S.C.B.O.D.) and the fraternities and sororities on campus. The "Welcome Back" party, is in fact during the Orientation week itself! Go check it out before the workload kills you during the semester.

There are also Movie Nights where the "couch potatoes" invade the first floor lounge of Bodine Hall to view the latest good movie. Besides that, there are also other Dorm Activities which include free food, from barbecues to snacks in the first floor lounge to the small parties down in the basement.

And if you are one of those people who like to sweat a lot burning fat or putting on muscles the Wheeler Recreation Center is not too far away. It is right in front of Marina Dining Hall. Ironical isn't it? The Center has a swimming pool, tennis courts, racquetball courts and a universal exerciser as well as a lifting room, volleyball courts, badminton courts, and many opportunities for physical exertion. As for the artistic side of UB, we have mini concerts as well as art shows. If you don't like these activities, then be a leader and organize those activities you want to see happening on campus.

But before you do anything here, please make sure you have your Personal Alarm Device (P.A.D.) - the beeper thing, on you. It is not fun trying to be superman or superwoman on or off campus. There is a very low crime rate on campus, but it's better to be safe than sorry. Believe me, I am speaking from experience. And as a member of The Scribe, I do not give out false information. (In fact, we believe in giving out accurate information). Also, please do not try to attempt to mess with UB. Trouble makers will be eaten alive.

And so, you probably have this really weird expression on your face as you read this article and wonder, "What is The Scribe? Some extremist organization? Or an alien nation?" Actually, we are blood-sucking vampires that lure you into UB and as soon as we find you vulnerable in any way, we'll suck the life out of you. That's what The Scribe is. Just don't tell the President about this. He thinks we are the campus newspaper...

S

Do's and Don'ts of UB

- 1 Don't pick your nose while talking to your professor
- 2 Don't take food out of Marina Dining Hall (just eat it)
- 3 Don't shoot the seagulls
- 4 Don't run barefoot on the sand
- 5 Don't fart in the elevator
- 6 Don't walk out of the Emergency exits unless it's an emergency (Faculty included)
- 7 Don't try synchronized swimming in the Wheeler Recreation Center
- 8 Don't breathe into the fire detectors in Bodine Hall, especially after smoking
- 9 Don't sit on your beeper
- 10 Don't call the President's wife "Betty"
- 11 Do say "hi" to everyone you meet
- 12 Do try to keep awake in class
- 13 Do write notes on paper and not on the desks
- 14 Do remember to use the bathroom daily
- 15 Do flush the toilets after use
- 16 Do call for an escort when traveling on campus after dark

Three new faculty members in the School of Arts, Humanities and Social Science

by Johanna J. Hose

The Scribe would like to welcome three new full time faculty members. Dr.

Yanmin Yu in Mass Communications, will be teaching Intro to Mass

Communication, Persuasive Communication, Intro to Advertising, and a Core course in Integrated Studies. Prof. Jim Lesko in Design Arts, will be teaching courses in 3-D Design Materials and Industrial Design I & II this Fall semester. Prof. Sean Nixon in Visual Arts, will be teaching a new course called "Integrated Introduction to Macintosh," Photography I & II, and Graphic Design III.

Dr. Yanmin Yu received a Ph.D from Syracuse and has

tions division of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communications. She has published and presented papers on topics including the "Changing Role of Women in Today's World" (Syracuse, 1990) to "Public Opinion Supervision and Government Efficiency" (Conference of Chinese Scholars of Political Science and International Studies, 1992), and "An Emperor without a Crown or a Servant with Two Masters: A Study of Investigative Reporting in China," (International Communication Association Convention, Washington, DC, 1993). Dr. Yu is excited, she says, to be teaching such a diverse student body at UB.

Prof. Lesko, who is a member of the Industrial Designers Society of America, the Design History Society, Design Forum and the College Art Association, has won prizes for his sculpture, including the Mrs. H. J. Heinz Prize at Pittsburgh. He has worked as a consultant for a wide range of companies, including Westinghouse Electric Corporation, Electrix, Acme Steel, and Andrea Fortunoff. He has completed a History of Industrial Design at Carnegie Institute of Technology, 1934-1967, and is working on a book called Materials and Manufacturing: An Outline. About coming to teach at UB he says, "I like the school, I like it's past, I like it's future."

Prof. Nixon, has experience in video production, photography, and electronic imagery. He has been an instructor at Kean College, NJ, at the Association of Graphic communications, NY, and at the School of Visual Arts, NY. His clients, among others, include MACY'S, Lippincott & Marquies Inc., Polo, and Bantam Books. Prof. Nixon says he is "intrigued" about coming to UB and is "looking forward to the challenge."

In regards to the new faculty, Director Juliusburger said, "all three are excellent...we picked all three...[based on their]...thorough academic and practical credentials."

LYNNE LANGELLA

"I hope I can be helpful," remarked the new Director of Counseling Services, Ms. Lynne Langella. She received her M.S. degree in Counselor Education from Southern Connecticut State University. Lynne comes to U.B. as a counsellor from an outpatient psychiatric facility in Hamden.

"I am very accessible and I encourage the students, staff, and faculty to call me about issues they have. It doesn't have to be real formal." Even before classes have started many calls have come into her office. Previously, many of her clients at the facility in Hamden were students from the area colleges in New Haven.

Lynne Langella

She has experience and expertise in the issues that affect college students.

There are many issues that college life brings up. For example, substance abuse or becoming too involved in a relationship. In addition, stress and anxiety about final exams or just coming to a new environment are real issues for each student. Especially, if you're a freshman and new to the college scene. Unfortunately, the freshman may not know there is counselling to help them. In addition, Lynne also encourages R.A.s or the R.D.s or even faculty to call her if they have a question or concern about a particular situation in the dormitory or classroom.

"The one thing I'd say to the U.B. community is: counseling is a resource."

ROBERT JACOBS

Bob graduated from the University of Bridgeport this year with an Undergraduate degree in Human Resources (minor in Mass Communications). He brings to his new position at U.B. his love for the University, lots of musical skills and many exciting ideas for student programming and orientation. He is planning on enrolling in the Human Resource development Master of Science program.

Robert Jacobs

David Oestreicher

DAVID OESTREICHER

David comes to U.B. from the University of Connecticut at Storrs with over eight years of professional experience in the area of Residential Life. He is very open and wants to improve the on campus living conditions of students. David or "David O" as he prefers to be called received his MBA from UCONN in International Marketing with a minor in Management and Organization.

"Total quality management and customer service is what I'm trying to focus on in the dormitories," said Mr. 'O'.

At UCONN he was responsible for the hiring and training of residential life staff and

Bob Smith to bring Shakespeare to UB

by Johanna J. Hose

Bob Smith, a New York theater director, who has been professionally involved with Shakespeare's works for 38 years will be teaching "Elements of Shakespeare" this semester. (Many UB students will remember the well attended Shakespeare experience by Smith and his troupe of young actors which was hosted by SCUBA last semester.)

The New York Times July 10th issue of this year featured Smith and his talks about Shakespeare at various centers for the elderly. The article mentions how Smith got started two years ago when someone asked him if he "would be willing to talk about Shakespeare, just once, at a center for the elderly."

"For Mr. Smith," the article continues "the classes have become a passion, a kind of love affair." Bob Smith, who grew up in Stratford, Connecticut, was quoted in the article saying "I'm interested in Shakespeare as it applies to real life, not so much in doing a Broadway play."

Taken from his course outline, Bob Smith's class plans to explore the world in which Shakespeare wrote, as well as look at design, music, dance and all the elements which make the event of the play. Furthermore, he will take a look on how this art was born and into what world it was first seen.

Director Juliusburger, who is very happy to have been able to sign Smith up for this semester said, "all you need to have (for this class) is imagination."

The class meets Monday from 6:00 to 8:30 in the evening, in room 110 in the Arnold Bernhard Center.

GBS gets new President

by Jorge Benitez

The Greater Bridgeport Symphony Society (GBS) is under new leadership this season (1996-1997) with Karen E. Friedberg as the President of the Board of Trustees. Karen Friedberg has also been working since 1990 as the University of Bridgeport's director of Corporate and Alumni Relations in Cortright Hall. Despite her busy schedule, she finds time to be a volunteer in the area she enjoys the most: music and concerts. "It is a time management challenge, but it helps that the office is located three doors away from my main job," she says. In 1992, she was invited to serve in the Board of Trustees because of her involvement with the Greater Bridgeport Symphony Society. Karen Friedberg as well as the other officers of the GBS Board of Trustees were elected this past June.

The main task of Karen Friedberg as the President of the Board Trustees for the GBS is to fulfill the mission of the organization as well as organizing fundraising, planning, selecting, and developing concerts and implementing new tactics for incrementing non-traditional audiences.

Although Bridgeport has changed in the past years, UB is proud to be the home of one of the finest symphony societies in Connecticut. The GBS celebrated its 50th anniversary season (1995-1996) with a series of concerts. The GBS had concerts on Saturday nights from October to April. The regular concerts take place at the Klein Memorial Auditorium on Fairfield Ave. only a few blocks away from UB. Tickets can be purchased at the office of the GBS Association (576-0213) and at the ticket office of the Klein Memorial Auditorium.

Korean Dean Exhibits Art at UB

by Johanna J. Hose

On Saturday, June 8th, Dean Yoon Ae-kun of Chon-nam University, Korea, had her opening reception at the Carlson Gallery in the Arnold Bernhard Center. Her show ran from June 6th through June 13th.

Exhibiting a series of small paintings, about 8" by 12," she uses oil paint and chinese ink stone to depict large organic shapes in which curved triangles create depth in the heavy dark mass of cobalt blue and veridian green. Amid this abstract approach she has delicately rendered colorful insects in many of the elongated triangles. Beetles, butterflies, and bees and more seem to create an illusion of depth in these beautifully wrought works.

Space, by Dean Yoon Ae-kun, oil pigment, Chinese paper, and ink 53x45 cm, 1996

It is highly unusual for Koreans to depict insects in their art, yet despite this unconformist subject matter, she has stuck to the traditional Chinese paper and ink. When looking up close, the unusual combination of oil with Chinese ink is distinctly visible, repelling each other, but standing back it merges, into a harmonious whole. "I've never seen anything like it," remarked one viewer.

Dean Yoon Ae-kun is an experienced painter and winner of the National Arts Exhibition of Korea in 1962. She has also been a guest artist at the Goethe Institute in Germany in 1994.

Barnum Festival

by Justin Harding

People say P.T. Barnum was a man of a million amazing ideas. Perhaps most remembered for his role as the ringmaster of the famous circus he started, Mr. Barnum also founded a hospital and at one time was the Mayor of Bridgeport.

His statue ever faces the rolling waters of the Long Island Sound in Seaside Park. In his memory a tradition started in 1949 called the Barnum Festival. The events are varied and diverse and span a time period from April to June. Recently, the University of Bridgeport has taken a greater role in the Great Street Parade. Our very own Mr. Michael C. Bisciglia, the Vice President for University Relations, was chosen by the P.T. Barnum Foundation as the honored ringmaster for this year's events.

Ringmaster Bisciglia wrote in a letter of thanks "We are celebrating the diversity of Bridgeport and the surrounding communities. . . The long and rich history of the Barnum festival uplifts our community in spirit and pride and this years Festival will be no exception."

Two knights representing UB

The parade, in earlier times and still today is a way for the community to gather and share the diversity of peoples and cultures within the Bridgeport community. This year U.B. had a float several places behind Ringmaster Bisciglia's

Cleaning up a Piece of Bridgeport

by Johanna J. Hose

On June 8th about 20 UB students joined Building Blocks, a non-for-profit organization run by Neighborhood Housing Services, in a day long volunteer project and helped to "revitalize the neighborhood," along the houses on Atlantic Street between Broad Street and Main.

Joined by nine other organizations each with about 20 volunteers, UB

students rolled up their sleeves, cleaned, picked up trash, swept, re-landscaped yards, painted fences, porches, and stairs, cut and trimmed bushes, and dug holes to plant trees and flowers. "It's amazing how dirty a place can get," said Markus Nottelmann, a UB volunteer.

Each organization chipped in $2,000 to cover costs; tools, paint, roofing, wood for repairs, etc. The City of Bridgeport's Public Works department provided a dump truck to remove all the debris. Besides UB, there were volunteers from Peoples Bank, UST Bank, Chase Bank, Lafayette American, Duracell, Neighborhood Reinvestment Corp., Allstate Insurance, and Pullman and Comley. Each received one house to "re-vitalize," and only UB received two with the same number of manpower.

Tax Update

by Justin Harding

Could you be taxed this upcoming semester? If you are on scholarship, you might be.

During the 1980's, a law was introduced that allows the Internal Revenue Service to require students to pay taxes on their scholarships. It's a very simple process to gain exemption, yet the tax laws are in a very typical IRS fashion -- difficult to comprehend at best.

"I have been studying the tax laws for the past three years and I still don't understand it all," remarked the Director of International Affairs Dawn Valenti.

This scholarship tax is only applicable to money you receive to help pay for your room and board. Any expense for your tuition, books, and other college fees is not taxable by the IRS. In addition, international students who come from a nation that has a Tax Treaty with the United States are exempt from this tax.

Two large groups of international students at UB come from China and Russia. However, these two nations have a "Tax Treaty" with the U.S. and, these students cannot be taxed on their room and board expenses by the IRS. Still, these students need to fill out the correct form with the Bursar's office to avoid paying this tax.

The University of Bridgeport has not been in compliance with these tax laws for several years as the whole financial restructuring of the University has been slowly going forward. One UB student commented, "This is good because, if the IRS is interested in us it means we must be making some money as a school. When we weren't making money the IRS wasn't interested. So it could be good in a way."

The university administration is doing everything possible to learn more about these laws, and find ways for students to receive exemptions from the tax entirely or reduce the amount of tax a student is required to pay on his or her scholarship.

In the next issue a more detailed explanation of these laws and a listing of nations who qualify for tax exempt status will follow.

Job Searching Time

by Sharon Loh

By now you have figured out what classes to take, you have your own room, and hopefully, you've found the dining hall. Perhaps you have a refrigerator and would like to stuff it full. But this costs money and as time goes on, you realize that the semester is flying by, and the stuff in the refrigerator does not last you more than two days.

You soon realize that you need some extra cash to get a stereo, a computer, a car and some loose change to go out and have some fun. Well, these things cost money and your allowance simply isn't enough. It is time to get yourself a job! Right now is the time to start looking out for a job. And I have a solution you might just want to take up. Get a job on campus.

Hold on, before you start bussing trays, answering phones or even stuffing envelopes, please drop by the Financial aid office to get the vital paperwork done. That way, you will be able to get legally employed by the school.

First and foremost, all work-seeking students (domestic and international alike) must have a Social Security Number to work in the United States. If you are a domestic student, and it is the first time you are getting a job on campus, a picture ID is also required. However, you are in luck as you can immediately start looking for jobs - especially if you are on financial aid. First priority is to students with work study because of the allocation given by the Federal Government. The government pays 75% of the pay of students on work study and the rest is paid by the school. But if you do not have work study in your financial aid, you also can work as a student employee. Then the school pays 100% of your paycheck.

If you are an international student, you must first get your work permit from the Director of International Affairs at UB, Dawn Valenti. Her office is on the first floor of the Student Center. After obtaining your permit, bring along your Social Security Number, passport and I-20 ID to the Financial Aid office at the 6th floor at the Wahlstrom Library. The bad news for international students is, you will have to wait for about 5 weeks before you can start working because priority is given to domestic students, especially ones with work study in their financial aid package. "There are plenty of jobs on campus... get paper work done before starting work," said Flo who works in the Financial Aid office.

If you do not know where to start looking for a job, there is a binder in the Financial Aid office which lists all available jobs. So go get a job before you realize that you are too late and your pockets are empty.

Graphic Design Gets New Computer Lab

by Markus Nottelmann

The long wait is over! Graphic Design finally received its long-awaited, up-to-date computer lab. The new lab, located in Breul Hall, Room 125, consists of five PowerMacs, one PC server, and the latest versions of Adobe Photoshop, Adobe Illustrator, and QuarkXPress. A scanner, reference literature and training software have also been purchased.

Graphic Design Majors have until now, not been able to learn and practice on industry-standard computers and software. The opening of the new lab will allow them to get the practical experience they need in the job market.

The first course to be taught using the new equipment is "Integrated Intro to Mac 219A+D. This course, taught by Professor Sean Nixon, a new full-time faculty member in the Graphic Design Department, will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 5:30 to 8:15pm.

Due to physical limitations, the lab will at this time not be connected to UBNet, the University's network and connection to the Internet. Putting web pages on-line from the new lab will thus not be possible. However, the high resolution scanner and the photo editing software in the lab will allow the creation of web pages that can then be made available on the Internet from one of the labs with a connection to UBNet.

Once the lab is in full use, Professor Nixon, who is also teaching the photography classes this semester, hopes to add several digital cameras to the current equipment. This would give students the opportunity to learn the latest photo-taking and editing techniques.

In Memoriam

On behalf of the UB community, we wish to extend our condolences to President Richard L. Rubenstein and his family for the loss of his mother, Sara Rubenstein, who passed away on August 23. She was born on May 5, 1900 and was predeceased by husband Jesse George Rubenstein and son Clifford. She is survived by two children, eight grandchildren, and ten great-grandchildren. President Rubenstein and his wife have asked that in lieu of flowers, donations be made to the University of Bridgeport in the name of Sara Rubenstein.

On behalf of the UB community we wish to extend our condolences to Jim Mooney and his family for the loss of his mother, Elizabeth H. Farrell Mooney, who passed away on August 26. She was the wife of the late James M. Mooney, and is survived by two children, four grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews. In lieu of flowers, donations may be offered to St. Patrick Church Restoration Fund.

900 to 1200 resident students each year. In addition, he also served as the Hearing Officer for disciplinary actions. Here at U.B. he has already instructed the R.A.'s in "Customer Service".

He comes with many new, fresh ideas, for example, organizing specialty housing which he explained as having a certain group of students get together and be housed on the same floor. It would not be a problem to create, for example, a substance free floor where students who don't smoke or drink could live away from that sort of scene. Furthermore, if a particular career oriented group wanted to be housed together this could be done.

Prof. Ganev to teach full time

by Johanna J. Hose

Prof. Stoyan Ganev, (School of Law, Moscow State University) is returning as a full time faculty member this semester and will be teaching Introduction to International Relations and Introduction to International Law. He has been a visiting distinguished Professor in Social Science for the past two years here at UB. Former President of the United Nations General Assembly, 1992-93, Prof. Ganev has also been the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs in the first democratically elected government of Bulgaria after World War II, serving from 1991 to 1993.

576-4721

Men's basketball is the most successful sport in the school's history, having made 13 NCAA tournament appearances with two National runnerups to its credit. The Purple Night cagers play their home games in the spacious Harvey Hubbell Gymnasium. Last year's team compiled a 9-17 record. This year's club figures to be an entirely new outfit.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

Coach Joe Barroso

576-4727

Women's soccer is on the move! Second-year Coach Barroso, the first full-time women's soccer coach in UB history, hopes to duplicate his previous success at Sacred Heart where he built the Lady Pioneers into a regional contender. Many key players from last year's 3-12-1 club are back for the Purple Nights, who play their home a Northeast Regional semi-finalist in their third straight NCAA Division II tournament. Four starters return for Coach Herer's juggernaut.

WOMEN'S GYMNASICS

Coach Lorrain Duffy

576-4059

The women's gymnastics team perennially ranks among the nation's best in Division II. This year's team finished sixth in the National meet in Seattle and junior Angela Varney was named to the All-

BASEBALL

Coach Dennis Whalen

576-4229

The UB baseball team made outstanding strides in the past year. Last year's team finished with a flurry. Coach Whalen's club lost heavily via graduation and will be seeking additional support for their 1997 season. Games are played at Diamond #1 in Seaside Park in March through May.

SOFTBALL

Coach: TBA

576-4059

The women's softball team has a rich tradition for success. UB plays a 36-game scheduled in March and April. The Purple Knights play their home games in Seaside Park as well as AlliedSignal Field in neighboring Stratford.

Walk-on student/athletes are encouraged to participate in the inter-collegiate athletics program. Contact the University of
